

BAS P/U

Basic training for Construction Work Environment Coordinators

KOMPETENSUTVECKLA.SE

Course Overview

For every construction project, a Construction Work Environment Coordinator for Planning and Design (BAS-P) and one for Execution (BAS-U) must be appointed by the client. The appointed person must be able to demonstrate the required training and experience for the role. This course covers the responsibilities of the client, developer, BAS-P and BAS-U.

Course Objective

The participant will gain knowledge of work environment responsibilities and how work environment issues should be addressed from planning and design through to execution. After the course, the participant will have the knowledge required to act as a Construction Work Environment Coordinator.

Target Audience

The course is aimed at anyone who will work as a Construction Work Environment Coordinator, as well as those whose professional role requires knowledge of how construction work environment coordination should be organised in a workplace, such as managers, supervisors, safety representatives, clients, developers, and others.

Method

In the training, lectures are alternated with group work, where different cases of workplace safety situations are to be solved.

Course Syllabus

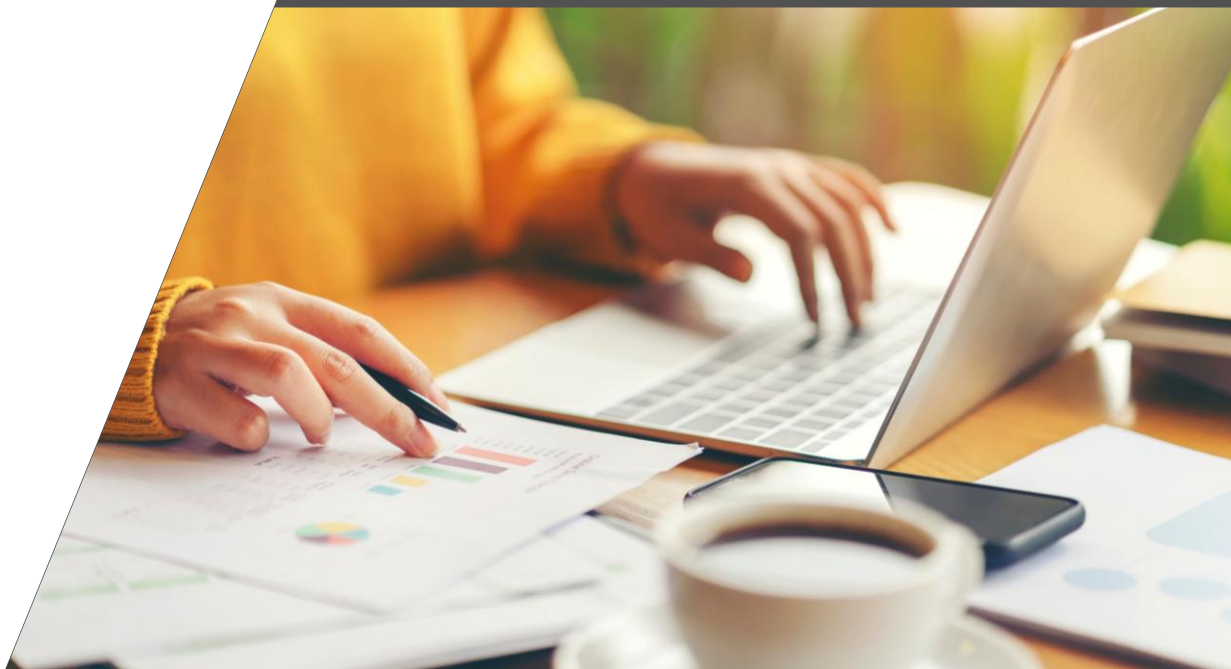

After the training, participants should be able to:

- Cooperate on work environment issues
- Identify risks and work preventively
- Understand the connection between a good work environment and organisational development
- Seek further information and apply it in daily work environment management
- Understand the distribution of responsibilities

Course Content

- Basic knowledge of work environment management
- The Work Environment Act and the Work Environment Ordinance
- Workplace design
- The Swedish Work Environment Authority's regulations on construction work, especially AFS 2023:3
- Work environment responsibility and criminal liability
- Employer and employee responsibilities
- Client and design responsibilities
- Preparation of a work environment plan and pre-notification

Course Format

All our training programs can be tailored to your company's needs. If you want a company-specific training, we will customize the program in close dialogue with you. Together, we review and decide on the content, scope, and objectives so that the training fits your organization perfectly.
